iCareDonate — Terms of Service

Last Updated: [pa-confirm kelan official date pls]

Welcome to iCareDonate, an item-based donation platform developed by Ambagan Inc. These Terms of Service explain the rules and responsibilities for using iCareDonate.

By creating an account or using iCareDonate, you agree to follow these Terms. If you do not agree with these Terms, please do not use the platform.

1. About iCareDonate iCareDonate is a community resource-donation platform designed to connect people who have useful physical items with individuals or communities who need support.

The platform focuses on physical or in-kind donations, such as food, school supplies, clothing, medical items, household goods, and other physical resources.

Cash or monetary donations, online payments, and digital goods are outside the scope of the current platform.

2. User Accounts

Users must create an account to participate in donation and requesting activities.

All new accounts must complete email verification before they can perform actions on the platform. A user may register only one account using the same email address.

Users are responsible for providing accurate information and for keeping their account credentials secure.

Administrative accounts are not created through the public registration process.

3. User Roles

Users may participate as donors, requesters, or both.

Donors can post items for donation.

Requesters can browse available donations and submit requests for items they need.

Users may act as both donors and requesters when their account allows it. Administrative accounts have separate access and responsibilities.

4. Donations

Only active accounts may post donations.

When posting a donation, users must provide the required information, including:

- Item title
- Category
- Quantity
- Condition
- Pickup method
- Pickup location

Users may also provide photos, an expiration date, and a description.

A donation is initially saved as a draft and must be submitted for administrator verification.

Donations are not publicly available until approved by an administrator. An administrator may request additional information or reject a donation and provide a reason.

5. Requests for Donations

Users may request an item only when the donation has been approved and has available quantity.

A request cannot exceed the available quantity of the donation. Users also cannot submit multiple active requests for the same donation. Suspended or banned accounts cannot submit requests.

Requesters must provide proof of need as part of their request. Administrators review this information before approving a request.

Proof-of-need documents are private and are not publicly accessible.

6. Matching and Transactions iCareDonate facilitates the connection between donors and requesters based on available donations and submitted requests. Matching may consider factors such as:

- Category or item type
- Available quantity
- Location proximity
- Request urgency
- Request date
- Requester verification status

A request may be matched with all or part of the available quantity of a donation. When a match is established, the corresponding donation quantity may be reserved for the requester

7. Claiming and Completion

Transactions have a claim deadline. The default claim period is 7 days from transaction creation, although this may be configurable by an administrator.

If a transaction is cancelled or the claim deadline passes without a claim being recorded, the reserved quantity may be returned to the donation's available quantity.

A completed transaction is recorded in the history of the donor and requester.

Users agree to:

- Provide truthful and accurate information.
- Provide legitimate information when submitting donations or requests.
- Use the platform only for its intended donation purposes.
- Respect other users.
